Summer Air Conditioner Tips

Keep the sun out by keeping the curtains closed.

When no one is in the room it is best to keep the curtains closed during the day. This is especially true for houses with windows on the eastern or western sides. Keeping the sun's direct rays from entering your home helps reduce the amount of effort your air conditioner puts forth to keep the house cool.

Make sure there aren't appliances around your thermostat that change the accuracy of its readings such as televisions, lamps or other items that generate heat.
